The Missionary Year Closes Sept. 30.

At Somerset church on last Sunday a "Training Class for Service" was organized with thirty-one members enrolled. The prospects are that this enrollment will be doubled within a few weeks. A steering committee of fourteen has been appointed by the official board of the church. All the members of this committee are actively at work soliciting people to attend the Bible School and make a special study of the Bible in this class, or one of the other classes.

At the meeting of the Executive Board of Kentucky Christian Missionary Convention on Saturday, H. W. Elliott was directed to attend a meeting of the Mississippi Valley Secretaries' Association in St. Louis on January 15-16. Secretaries from Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Texas, Nebraska and Iowa are expected to be there. The object to be considered is a closer organization between the general Christian Missionary work and that of the separate States.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mrs. Howard VanAntwerp entertained the "Sans Souci" club last Wednesday afternoon at her home on West Main street.

Misses Virgie and Bernice McClure entertained at dinner on Monday of last week in honor of the Misses Coons, of North Middletown.

During the holidays Miss Mary Cobb Stofor entertained in honor of her guests, Misses Sarah Jones, of Bourbon and Alma Cassell, of Natchez, Miss.

At the charity ball in Lexington last week Miss Elizabeth Loughridge was severely burned on arms. Her gauzy dress took fire from an electric spark.

Misses Nellie and Annabel Coons, of North Middletown, visited Misses Pearl and Emma Coons during the holidays. A dining was given in their honor.

In honor of Miss Cecil Farris, of Fleming county, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCormick, of Spencer, gave a delightful social on Wednesday evening. More than 100 young people enjoyed the feasting and dancing.

Howard Brown entertained with a New Year's supper at Lindsay's Cafe. The party who watched the outgoing of the old year were: Misses Virginia Tipton, Flo Shirley, Kathryn Wood, Gladys Samuels, Olive Wood, Charlotte Samuels, Mary Wood, and Messrs. Col. Gatewood, William Carrington, Stanley Wood, Harvey Prewitt, Josh Owings and Tom Sutton.

Rarely has a more brilliant reception been given in any private home than that of Mrs. M. T. McElowney Wednesday afternoon, January 1st, in this city. It was one of the most beautiful events in the social history of Winchester, and few homes are more suitable than this for large gatherings, the spacious rooms and halls lending themselves beautifully to elaborate adornments.

The decorations were superb, the house being simply aglow with cut flowers, and festive with ropes of smilax, wreaths of holly, Christmas bells, and the whole interior further enlivened by soft, glowing lights from candles and incandescents, presenting a bewilderingly beautiful and bewitching scene and adding charm and cheer to the yuletide season. To this attractive setting a stringed orchestra added music's charms to the afternoon's pleasure.

Mrs. McElowney was radiant in an imported robe of jeweled net over taffeta, and received with charming grace the compliments and courtesies showered upon her.

By her side stood Mrs. J. H. MacNeill, a charming lady, exceedingly graceful in manner and speech, who was attired in light blue Brussels net over silk with becoming lace effects.

Mrs. M. Gano Buckner, of Mansfield, Ohio, sister of the hostess, completed the receiving line, and wore an exquisite costume of white aeolian over violet tulle, with touches of rare rose points, which enhanced her dainty loveliness.

A unique feature, and one which elicited much admiration, was a Japanese tea room, which was decorated with the vivid poinsettia, strings of lanterns, bells, flags and Japanese ware of every description. In the center of a large table was a mound of holly from which arose an immense umbrella ornamented with ropes of tinsel and miniature bells and lanterns. From the ceiling to each corner of the room garlands of various colored draperies were drawn, and real Japanese tea was poured by Mrs. W. S. Massie and Mrs. G. N. Kohlhaas, who were simply fetching in their Japanese costumes.

The dining room, in which a variety of cakes and ices in various forms were served, was a bower of perfect loveliness. Bowls of fruit were arranged on the buffet, in the center of which was an ornamented Christmas tree, the base of which was a music box eliciting sweet strains of music.

Miss Mary Tibbs, of Mt. Sterling, and Miss Susan Buckner were in charge of the registry book.

Those from Mt. Sterling who attended were Mesdames A. L. Tipton, J. S. Frazer, N. H. Trimble, C. W. Nesbitt, A. M. Bourne, M. E. Cassidy, B. W. Trimble, Misses Ella Trimble, Mary Tibbs and Mr. B. W. Trimble.—Winchester Democrat.

The above is only a partial report.
